

Divorce FAQs – Frequently Asked Questions for A Utah Divorce

walllegalsolutions.com/divorce-faqs-utah

Do I Really Need to Hire a Family Law Attorney?

Even if you and your spouse agree that divorce is best for you, it will be beneficial to have an expert guide you through the process. Even if a divorce is amicable, an attorney can take the necessary actions to advise you on things and situations that may come up in the future. An attorney can also help educate you about what you're legally entitled to, make strategy recommendations, and help prepare documents. Having a Utah Divorce attorney is especially important if children are involved.

Getting a divorce can be an emotional roller coaster. At Wall Legal Solutions we understand how difficult a divorce can be and are here to help you navigate the legal proceedings. Listed below are answers to some of the most common divorce-related questions.

How Much Will a Divorce Cost?

Like so many things in life, the answer to this is that it depends. There is a fee to file the petition for divorce, there are fees for the court assistance program, fees for the Office of Vital Records and Statistics, fees to have the petition and summons filed, copying fees, and then if children are involved, there are also Divorce Education classes and Divorce Orientation classes. Then, there is the attorney fee which can vary depending on how long the entire process lasts.

How Long Will My Utah Divorce Take to Be Finalized?

Can I Get an Annulment in Utah?

How are Legal Separations, Annulments, and Divorces Different?

What Are Legal Grounds for Divorce in Utah?

What is Divorce Mediation in Utah?

Can My Spouse and I be Represented by the Same Lawyer?

Should I be the One to File First?

Am I Able to Move?

Will Adultery Affect a Settlement Amount?

How Soon Can I Remarry?

Can I Continue on My Spouse's Insurance After a Divorce?

If I Am Not on the Title, Do I Still Have an Interest in the House or the Car?

If My Spouse Handled our Finances, How Can I Ensure I get My Fair Share?

My Spouse Moved into the Home I Owned when we Married. Do they have an Interest in the Home?

What if I Want to Change an Order Made in my Divorce Judgement?

How Do I Get Certified Copies of my Divorce Papers?

What if I am a Victim of Domestic Violence?

Can I File for a Restraining Order in the Divorce?

What Happens Next After I File the Divorce Paperwork?

May I File for an Immediate Order to Survive Financially?

Where do I File for a Divorce?

Will I Have to Go to Court for a Divorce?

Should I Move Out During My Divorce?

What Can I Do to Prepare for Filing for Divorce?

How Do I Respond to a Divorce or Child Custody Petition?

What if the Divorce Is Not Contested?

What if a Party Does Not Respond to a Divorce or Child Custody Petition?

What About the Mandatory Divorce Education Classes?

Can I Request a Temporary Order Before the Divorce Is Finalized?

For Any Other Divorce Questions, Contact the Utah Divorce Attorneys at Wall & Wall

Often people find that the only thing more difficult than divorce is a complicated divorce. For experienced help from professional family law attorneys, complete the contact form on this page to book a free, no-obligation 30 consultations to discuss your case.