Going through a divorce is a daunting process. It's confusing enough without struggling to figure out what the documentation and courtroom interactions mean because you don't know the legal terminology.

Here's a glossary of legal terms used in divorce cases, to help you stay up to speed in your divorce proceeding.

Glossary of Legal Divorce Terms in Utah

A.D.R: Alternative Dispute Resolution. The use of mediation, arbitration, or other processes to settle a legal case in lieu of a courtroom trial.

Affidavit: A formal written document for submitting to the court a statement given under oath instead of testifying in person.

Alimony: Alimony is payments to a spouse or ex-spouse for his or her financial support sometimes during a divorce, after it is finalized, or both.

Allegation: A formal written accusation against a party submitted to the court for the purpose of proving to the court or jury that the allegation is true.

Annulment: A formal dissolution of a marriage by the court in which the marriage is declared to be nullified or canceled as if it had never occurred.

Arrearage: Unpaid child support or alimony that is past due for payment.

Appeal: To escalate a legal matter to a higher court seeking a reversal of a lower court's final decision.

Child Support: Child Support is Payments made by one parent to the other for the financial support of a child who is in the custody of and cared for by the parent being paid.

Common-Law Marriage: A legal status imposed on domestic unions between men and women in some states that may provide the rights and responsibilities of marriage, including the requirement to obtain a divorce if they choose to dissolve the relationship.

Contempt of Court: Any intentional disruption of the legal process including failing to obey a court order, or failing to appear when required, among other punishable offenses.

Contested Divorce: A divorce proceeding in which the spouses cannot reach an agreement about one or more sticking points so that the parties bring the matter(s) to the court for a legally binding decision.

Court Order: A formal written dictate from a court, issued by a judge.

Custody: Legal custody is the right to make decisions regarding a child's best interests, whereas physical custody is the right to have the child living with you and under your parental control.

Deposition: A written record of testimony taken from a witness who is under oath at a different location than the courtroom.
